Southside Virginia Community College is proud to offer Workforce Development programs designed to help the members of our community receive world-class training designed to serve our business and industry partners here in Southside Virginia.

These programs are designed for those Southside residents who need short-term training resulting in an industry-recognized credential, and leading directly to employment. As you look through our offerings, it is our hope that you will see something that not only interests you, but also will help you get to where you wish to be professionally.

Don’t worry about the costs! The Virginia Workforce Credential Grant will pay two-thirds of your tuition, if you are a Virginia resident. In addition, we have many funding partners who may help you pay for the training. In the last year alone, SVCC students have received nearly $1,000,000 in financial assistance for our programs. Contact any of our workforce staff for more information on our many tuition assistance programs.

Our faculty and staff have worked hard to ensure Southside Virginia has the very best programs and facilities available. Take some time and look through our offerings — if you don’t see what you need, let us know, maybe the next great idea will be yours!

On behalf of our entire staff, I wish you the best of luck as you move forward on your journey to a rewarding career!

Respectfully,

Keith Harkins
Vice President of Workforce Development and Continuing Education

The healthcare industry is actively seeking professional Nurse Aides. This seven week course is designed for individuals desiring to work as a CNA. Upon successful completion of the program students receive the certificate needed to take the Virginia NNAAP (National Nurse Aide Assessment Program) Exam to become a Certified Nurse Aide (CNA).

What are the job duties of a Nurse Aide?
The Nurse Aide Certificate Program is intended for the individual desiring to work as a CNA in long term or acute care. Skills obtained in the Nurse Aide Program include:

- Collect specimens as directed by the RN or LPN
- Utilize assistive devices, transfer aides, and other equipment safely

Career Opportunities
Occupational objectives for this program include working as a CNA in health-related agencies including nursing homes and hospitals as well as home health positions acquired through placement agencies or private arrangements. There are many job opportunities in Southside Virginia for CNAs! Completion of the requirements to become a Certified Nursing Assistant can be the first step on the educational ladder of the field of nursing.

According to the Department of Labor Statistics, the average wage for CNA in Virginia is $24,110 to $25,330 annually.

‘The best decision I could have made’

Helene McDaniels

Certified Nursing Assistant courses have been offered by Southside Virginia Community College for many years. Recently, there has been a revolutionary change in the delivery of this program with Workforce Credentials being earned for successful completion along with help paying for the course through Virginia Workforce Credential Grant.

A successful Certified Nursing Assistant student from SVCC is Helene McDaniels. She grew up in Green Bay and graduated from Prince Edward County High School. After completing the Nurse Aid program at SVCC, she took her State Board tests to become Certified. She now works at VCU/CMH Hundley Center in South Hill. She has goals of receiving a Medication Aide credential and possibly pursuing a nursing career.

McDaniels said, “Attending this course was the best decision I could have made. It is a true privilege to be able to help those in need. The instructor was so awesome and the experience was more than I could have ever imagined. I have carried everything I learned with me and it truly helps me perform my required duties within my career.”

She also said, “From my experience, SVCC has so much to offer future career minded students that wish to achieve their goals. They are truly there to help you any way they can.”

Na’Shiyaa Robertson

At eighteen years old, Na’Shiyaa Robertson might look like your average high school student: active, happy and working hard to balance studies and social life. Beneath the composed exterior, however, is a highly motivated young woman who is completing the SVCC Nurse Aide program in addition to completing her high school studies at Randolph Henry High School.

Redefining the term “multitasking,” SVCC’s dual enrollment program allows Shy to attend nursing classes at the Southside Virginia Community College’s Keysville campus while still in high school. In May, Shy crossed her graduation stage with not only a diploma, but poised to take the state boards to become a Certified Nurse’s Aide and jump-start her nursing career.

“Being able to help people do things they are no longer able to do is empowering not only to me, but to my patients as well,” she said.

Phlebotomy

Phlebotomists collect blood primarily by performing venipunctures or finger-sticks. The duties of a phlebotomist may include properly identifying the patient, interpreting the tests requested on the requisition, drawing blood into the correct tubes with the proper additives, accurately explaining the procedure to the patients, preparing patients accordingly, practicing the required forms of asepsis, practicing standard and universal precautions, performing the skin/vein puncture, withdrawing blood into containers or tubes, restoring hemostasis of the puncture site, instructing patients on post-puncture care, ordering tests per the doctor’s requisition, affixing tubes with electronically printed labels, and delivering specimens to a laboratory.

Students will learn through a combination of classroom lectures, labs, and clinical rotations. Students will need to complete a background check, drug screen, and provide documentation of vaccines as well as other basic medical procedures depending on requirements of clinical site.

Penny Flippo

It comes as no surprise that Penny Flippo of Henrico, Virginia was willing to drive an hour-and-a-half to school every day for two months. She was studying to become a truck driver.

It was on the advice of her cousin, also a tractor-trailer driver, which led Flippo to Southside Virginia Community College (SVCC) in Blackstone, Virginia. She knew of the high demand and vacancies for truck drivers in Virginia and saw an opportunity. She took a chance and left her retail job in 2014 to complete Class A Commercial Driver’s License (CDL) training at SVCC.

“One day I just decided, I’m going to do it. Some people may think you are too old to start something new, but you aren’t. I did it.”

Flippo earned her CDL after completing the six-week training program at SVCC, which included a DMV exam. She now works for Colony Construction in Powhatan, Virginia, driving a dump truck and hauling asphalt for road construction.

“I like to be outside and this is outside work. My personality clicks with that environment because everybody is outgoing. I like a challenge. People may say this is a man’s job, but a lot of women are doing it now.”

Flippo takes pride in breaking down gender stereotypes associated with truck driving.

“I hear people drive by all the time and ask, ‘Is that a lady?’ Some give me a thumbs up. I am always told that I don’t look like a regular truck driver.”

Flippo would recommend truck driving to others, especially women, looking to change their career.

“Trucks deliver everything. You will always need truck drivers and companies are always hiring,” she said.

Luke Storey

Luke Storey has always been something of a ranch hand. Growing up in Southside Virginia, he’s worked the fields and farms that crisscross this rural landscape and become a bit of an agricultural expert in the process.

There hasn’t been much else to do. Job opportunities have historically been relatively scarce in this neck of the woods.

But then, word of Southside Virginia Community College’s Power Line Worker training school reached Storey and things began to change quickly.

“I was tired of working on different farms, insulation businesses and stuff like that. I knew I wanted something different and better and I knew it was going to be hard to get a job in this industry without some sort of training. So, I signed up.”

The 19-year-old Storey was one of more than a dozen members of the school’s inaugural class. After 11 weeks of intensive training, he graduated and earned a handful of life-changing certificates and credentials. More importantly, he found a good-paying job.

“While I was in the program, I started applying to jobs and I got an offer to work with Southside Electric Cooperative, which was my number one choice. We graduated on a Thursday and I started work the next Monday.”

Being gainfully employed and doing what he likes, Storey says, has also done wonders for his self-esteem.

“It makes me feel better knowing that my paychecks are coming in and that I’m paying a lot of my bills on my own and not having to rely on my parents because I know it’s hard enough for them having to pay for themselves let alone me and my sister.”
NATIONAL CAREER READINESS CERTIFICATE (NCRC)

National Career Readiness Certificate helps employers by certifying that a recipient possesses core skills in applied math, reading for information, and locating information — skills that are required by at least 85% of all jobs profiled by ACT Workkeys in the country.

WHY NCRC?

There is great concern in the private sector about the gap that exists between the skills required in today’s workplace and those exhibited by potential and incumbent employees. Businesses have trouble finding and hiring people who have basic employable skills and who are therefore trainable for specific jobs. The Career Readiness Certificate is a portable skills credential, assuring employers that a job applicant actually has the basic skills they need.

Continuing Education for Tradesmen

Journeymen, Master Plumbers, Electricians, HVAC mechanics, and Gas Fitters are now required by the Virginia Board of Contractors to take a pre-determined number of continuing education hours specific to their trade as part of the licensing process. Anyone obtaining or renewing a license must take continuing education in his/her respective profession. Plumbers, HVAC technicians and Electricians must take three hours of continuing education in their field. Gas fitters must take one hour. (This one hour class for Gas Fitters is intended for Journeyman and Master Gas Fitters, Liquefied Petroleum Gas Fitters, and Natural Gas Fitters.) Each course covers new definitions, code changes, general requirements, impacts on the job, general use and special equipment included in the respective codes.

These classes are recognized by the Commonwealth of Virginia’s Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation and the Virginia Board of Contractors and meet the new continuing education requirement. Certificates of Continuing Education Units (CEUs) are recognized by the Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation and will be issued to all licensed Virginia electrical tradesmen cardholders upon successful completion of the class.

The cost of the three-hour classes (Electric, HVAC and Plumbing) is $125 and the cost of the one-hour class (Gas Fitter including) is $65. A workbook highlighting the changes is included in the cost of the class and will be distributed when participants arrive for class.

What is the Workforce Credential Grant

Virginia will be offsetting the tuition of select workforce training programs at community colleges by 66% with the new Workforce Credential Grant (WCG). New incentive funds to offset the cost of tuition on select high-demand credentials programs are now available and programs are open for registration. The funds are available to Virginia residents who meet Virginia domicile requirements. See list of eligible programs below.

SVCC’s WCG Eligible Programs Include:

- Certified Nursing Assistant
- Commercial Driver’s License
- Medication Aide
- Power Line Worker
- Certified Massage Therapist
- Precision Machining
- Welding
- Phlebotomy
- Medication Aide
- Machining Skills Certification

Sometimes the cost of programs that prepare you for high-demand careers can create a financial barrier. The Workforce Credential Grant (WCG) underwrites the cost of select pre-approved high-demand training programs by covering two-thirds of the cost with the expectation of you obtaining the related workforce credential. You are financially responsible for the first-third. If you are financially unable to pay the first-third as determined by the predefined set of criteria, you may qualify for Workforce Financial Assistance (FANTIC). Funding for both WCG and FANTIC programs is limited.

What is the Workforce Credential Grant (WCG)?

Workforce Credential Grant (WCG) is a program funded by the Virginia General Assembly to encourage the attainment of high-demand workforce credentials by underwriting the cost of approved credential preparation programs for Virginia residents that meet Virginia domicile requirements. You are required to pay one-third of the cost of the program with the explicit expectation you will seek and obtain the related credential identified for your program of choice. Failure to complete the class will result in your financial obligation to pay an additional one-third of the cost of the program back to the Commonwealth of Virginia. Funding for this program is limited.

Workforce Financial Assistance (FANTIC) provides funding for you if you demonstrate the required financial need in order to enroll in an approved workforce training program leading to the attainment of an industry recognized credential or license and are not eligible for other funding grants or financial assistance. Applicants are awarded on a first-come, first-served basis. This financial assistance will pay for 90% of your cost for the program. If you qualify, you will be responsible for 10% of your portion at the time of registration. Funding for this program is limited.

What is Expected?

Those participating in this program will be expected to regularly attend and participate in all classes (attend at least 90% of all class meetings) AND successfully attain a designated credential at the end of the program, regardless of whether that credential is embedded in the cost of the class or requires an additional fee for a credential assessment/certification exam at a third-party site.

If you qualify for the WCG Workforce Financial Assistance (FANTIC) you will pay 10% of the student obligation (one-third of the cost of the program). WCG Workforce Financial Assistance (FANTIC) will pay the remaining 90% of the student obligation. Funding for this program is limited and will be disbursed on a first come first served basis to those that meet the required qualifications. Funding for both the WCG and FANTIC programs are limited.

Please see one of our Workforce Staff to see how to qualify!
Students may qualify for WIOA benefits to help fund their tuition costs. Contact your local WIOA representative to see if you qualify.

What is an Apprenticeship Program?

The Apprenticeship program is a flexible job training program that allows an employee to acquire on the job skills combined with related instruction (often college classes) to produce a highly skilled employee. The goal is to help the employee achieve a nationally recognized training credential.

Apprenticeship Examples for Advanced Manufacturing: Electrician, Maintenance Mechanics, Precision Machinist, Welding and Engineering Technicians.

Apprenticeship Examples for IT: Systems Analyst, Network Administrator, CAD, Graphic Designer, and Cybersecurity Analyst.

How would an Apprenticeship Program help me?

Many students find it necessary to work while going to school. As an apprentice, the hours you work count towards the credential you are working towards. Apprentices also receive increases in pay as their skills and knowledge grow.

Where would I work and get the training I need?

Many local companies are actively participating in the Apprenticeship program in Southside Virginia. In 2015, a grant was awarded to SVCC to help train students for the Apprenticeship program. This grant also encourages local companies to adopt the Apprenticeship model as a way to train the workforce for 21st century jobs. Here is the website for the grant: http://apprenticeva.com/

I need more information….

For more information on the programs offered at SVCC, contact Kelly Arnold, (434) 579-7260 or kelly.arnold@southside.edu.
